Introduction

What is a cultural resource survey?

The Georgia Historic Resources Survey is an ongoing, statewide survey of buildings, sites, structures, and objects of historical, architectural, and cultural significance. The Georgia Survey is one of the programs administered by the Historic Preservation Division of the Department of Natural Resources (HPD).

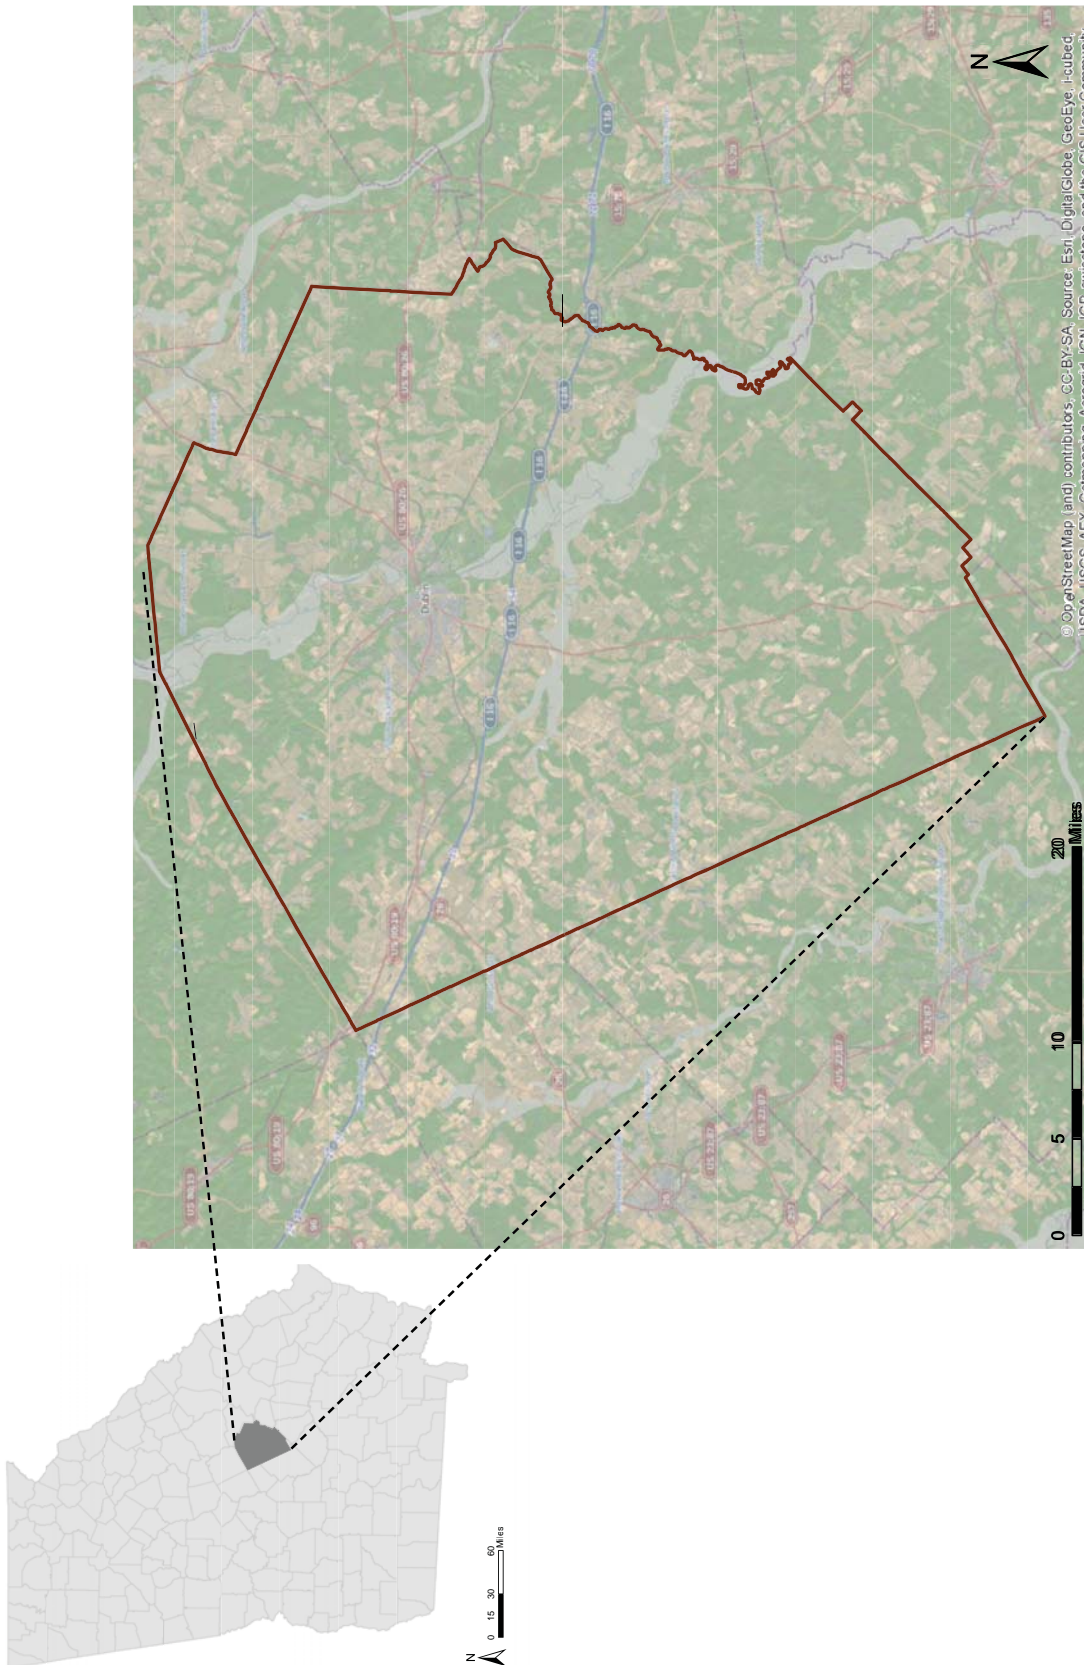

Completed surveys can be used to identify individual buildings and districts for possible listing in the Georgia Register of Historic Places; assist the preservation efforts of Georgia's Certified Local Governments; support local designations of buildings and districts; expedite environmental review by governmental agencies; aid preservation and land-use planning; and promote research of the state's history and architecture. Through the public's participation, encouraged by the HPD, surveys can increase awareness of a community's historic resources.

A goal of historic resource survey is to collect a minimum level of information needed statewide for preservation activities. This basic, standard survey does not gather all the kinds of information needed in local preservation planning, environmental review, National Register nominations, or historical research, but serves as a foundation for these preservation activities.¹

Project Description

The Findit! Program housed at the Center for Community Design and Preservation (CCDP) within the University of Georgia's College of Environment and Design (CED) conducted a Phase I Historic Resource Survey of Laurens County, Georgia in December 2013. Findit! is a state-wide cultural resource survey program sponsored by the Georgia Transmission Corporation (GTC) in partnership with the Georgia Department of Natural Resources, Historic Preservation Division (GA SHPO). The project area covered the 305 square miles in the unincorporated portions of the county. Laurens County is located in middle south Georgia, and is bordered by Wilkinson and Johnson counties to the north, Treutlen, Wheeler, and Dodge counties to the south and east, and Bleckley and Twiggs counties to the west.

The resource survey was performed by historic graduate students in the Historic Preservation program (MHP) and the Masters of Landscape Architecture program (MLA) at the CED. The survey consisted of historical and developmental research of the project area, windshield and pedestrian field work, and data collection and analysis.

The information collected by the field survey was entered into Georgia's Natural, Archaeological, and Historic Resources Geographical Information System, (GNARHGIS), a web-based geographical information system designed to store and display information about Georgia's cultural resources. GNARHGIS is the repository for all of the current statewide historic resources survey data. The survey information was entered under survey ID 2223, "Findit Laurens County," and can be accessed at: <https://www.gnahrgis.org/gnahrgis/index.do>.

Methodology

The survey was conducted according to the procedures outlined in The Georgia Historic Resources Survey Manual. The surveyors used a combination of USGS base maps and GIS data to identify potentially historic parcels and structures.

The area was surveyed over the course of several days with systematic coverage of the project area. Each assigned resource (within the assigned boundaries) was assessed for historic significance, and architectural integrity. A Georgia Historic Resources survey form was completed for buildings having a minimum level of architectural integrity. A structure with architectural integrity is one that generally retains its original location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling and association. Properties with a significant loss of physical integrity, or those lacking historic significance were not surveyed. The physical condition of structures was not a consideration for identification for resources which retained architectural integrity. All identified resources were approximately 50 years old or older, with the exception of Ranch Houses which were documented with a construction date prior to 1973. All properties surveyed were assigned an identification number then documented with the completion of a Georgia Historic Resource Survey Form, as well as photo documentation and corresponding georeferencing data. The survey form includes information about the use, style, floor plan, materials, context, physical description and an accurate determination of the date of construction and additions. Sources utilized for age determination and architectural style and type description included Lee and Virginia McAlester's A Field Guide to American Houses, the Georgia Historic Resources Survey Manual, *Georgia's Living Places*¹ and A Visual Guide to Architecture by Francis D. K. Ching. All dates of construction are presented in nine year increments unless explicitly identified by markers or other documentation.

Criteria for Evaluation

National Register for Historic Places

Each resource was evaluated for potential listing in the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP). Those resources already listed in the Register have been noted. The criteria for listing are outlined in the National Register Bulletin How to Apply the National Register Criteria for Evaluation published by the U.S. Department of Interior, National Park Service. Cultural resources can be defined as eligible for the NRHP if they:

- A. Are associated with events that have had a significant contribution to a broad pattern of history; or
- B. Are associated with the lives of persons significant in the past;
- C. Embody distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or represent the work of a master, possess high artistic values, or represent a significant and distinguished entity whose components may lack distinction; or
- D. Have yielded or may be likely to yield, information important to history or prehistory.¹

Ordinarily cemeteries, birthplaces, or graves of historical figures, properties owned by religious institutions or used for religious purposes, structures that have been moved from their original locations, reconstructed historic buildings, properties primarily commemorative in nature, and properties that have achieved significance within the last 50 years are not considered for the National Register. However, properties will qualify if they are integral parts of districts that do meet the criteria or they fall within the following categories:

- a. A religious property deriving primary significance from architectural or artistic distinction or historical importance; or
- b. A building or structure removed from its original location but which is significant primarily for architectural value, or which is the surviving structure most importantly associated with a historic person or event; or
- c. A birthplace or grave of a historical figure of outstanding importance if there is no appropriate site or building directly associated with his or her productive life; or
- d. A cemetery which derives its primary significance from graves or persons of transcendent importance, from age, from distinctive design features, or from association with historic events; or
- e. A reconstructed building when accurately executed in a suitable environment and presented in a dignified manner as part of a restoration master plan, and when no other building or structure with the same association has survived; or
- f. A property achieving significance within the last 50 years if it is of exceptional importance.

For a property to qualify for the National Register it must meet one of the National Register Criteria for Evaluation by:

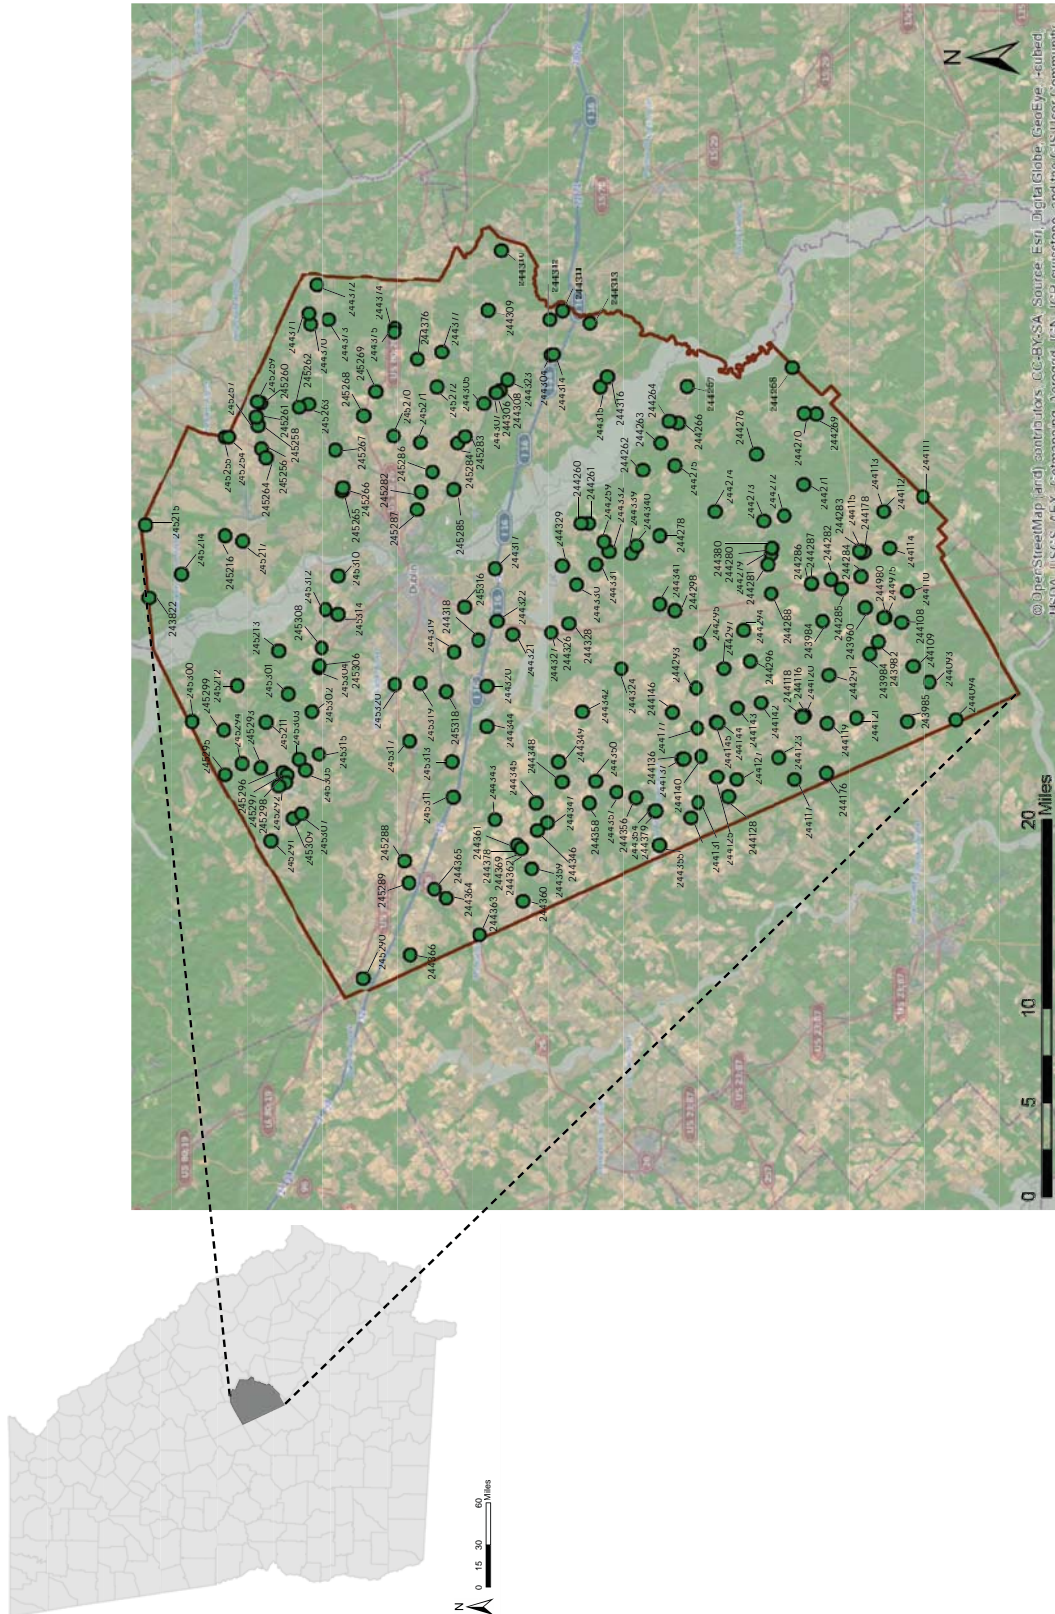

- Being associated with an important historical context and
- Retaining historic integrity of those features to convey its significance.

To determine whether a property or site retains integrity, it needs to be evaluated for the aspects of its location, design, setting, workmanship, materials, feeling, and association to convey its historic significance.²

² A complete list of areas of significance can be accessed at http://www.nps.gov/nr/publications/bulletins/nrb15/nrb15_5.htm

IDENTIFIED RESOURCES IN LAURENS COUNTY, GEORGIA

Survey Results

A total of 202 resources were documented in the survey; 17 appear to maintain, and 80 may maintain a minimum level of age, architectural integrity, and significance to be considered historic.

The most documented resource type was cemetery, with 94 (46.8%) located in Laurens County. 45 of the 202 documented resources were single family residential structures; the two most represented building types were 'central hallway,' (22, 20.2%), and 'Georgian cottage' (17, 15.6%).

The construction date of all resources ranged from the early 1800s to the mid-1960s. The period with the most extant resources is from 1910-1919 (25.9%), followed by 1900-1909 (14.9%).

The variance in building type and architectural styles exhibited in unincorporated Laurens County is typical for heavily agrarian Georgia communities.

Integrity

The majority of the resources in unincorporated Laurens County exhibited a fair to good level of architectural integrity. The integrity of these resources was most often affected by non-historic alterations, which compromise the resource's design, materials, and/or historic workmanship. These changes include additions to the building and material replacement including but not limited to: exterior cladding, porch alterations, window or door replacement, etc.

48 of the 202 (23.9%)
resources are currently vacant.

Many resources documented as 'vacant' maintain excellent integrity; these resources have few, if any alterations to their historic fabric. Vacant properties are considered highly endangered because they are more susceptible to fire and vandalism. Additionally, repairs and weatherproofing are not carried out in a timely manner, thus leaving the structures to decay. The condition of many of these resources is poor, but with minimal intervention, many of them can be restored.

Of the resources with minimal overall alterations, 17 appear to meet the criteria for eligibility for the National Register of Historic Places. 80 resource 'may meet' the National Register criteria; these resources have good to excellent architectural integrity, but warrant further research as to their accurate age and historic significance.

Conclusion

Laurens County has a fairly good representation of extant historic resources given its agricultural heritage.

The disparate location of these resources, paired with the overall integrity of these structures do not indicate any potential National Historic Landmarks or historic districts. These resources are typical of unincorporated Georgia, with the bulk of residential structures dating to the turn-of-the-twentieth-century, when Laurens County saw a surge in population and agricultural production. These structures are representative examples of southeastern residential architecture.

A number of mid-century residential and religious structures were documented which may gain historic significance in their own right in the near future.

Many mid-century residential resources maintain good integrity with few alterations; religious structures from the same period however, have undergone extensive alterations such as large additions or material replacements. Not documented in this study, but anecdotally noted, were a number of structures dating to the late 1970s and 1980s. If the architectural integrity of these potential resources remain intact, they may warrant a historic inventory in the coming decades.
